ORDER GRANTING INTERVENTION

On June 28, 1994, the Commission issued an order in this case establishing an intervention date of July 20, 1994. On August 2, 1994, Grand River Mutual Telephone Corporation and Lathrop Telephone Company filed a joint application to intervene and a motion for leave to intervene out of time. In support of their motion the two companies indicate that they had not had sufficient time prior to the intervention date to review the tariffs which are the subject of this case. Now, the companies state they believe their interests would best be served by becoming parties to this case. In addition, both companies indicate they are local exchange companies regulated by the Commission and therefore their interests are different from those of the general public. Both companies indicate that they will participate in this proceeding, if granted intervention, as part of the Small Telephone Company Group.

The Commission has considered the joint application and finds that Grand River Mutual Telephone Corporation and Lathrop Telephone Company have interests different from those of the general public and therefore they will be granted intervention in this proceeding. Since they companies will be participating as part of the Small Telephone Company Group, there should be no prejudice to other parties.
